

Historic Landmark Of Elegant Days In Gooding Goes Up In Smoke And Flames

By MARY THOMPSON

Times-News Correspondent

GOODING.—A 60-year-old landmark in Gooding came tumbling down in tongues of flame and belches of smoke Monday morning.

The Lincoln Inn, stately edifice of earlier days, was gutted by flames Monday, and even as the acrid smell of smoke filtered over the city, old timers and not-so-old timers were reminiscing about events that had been held there.

Old timers were almost dewy-eyed thinking about the elegant balls held there during the late Sen. Frank Goodling's tenure in office. The building was erected at a cost of $65,000 by that gentleman, who was active in politics for many years, serving as senator and governor.

The hotel was sold to the Faulkner family about 10 years ago, and has since been remodeled.

The building first was opened and a coffee shop added to the public on Lincoln's birthday in 1869. There was great fanfare and celebration, and Mr. Goodling, just out of the governor's chair, entertained heads of state. Guests were served in the elegant French restaurant. Ladies wore gowns from New York and Chicago in honor of the event.

The "Lincoln" Inn almost earned the name of a second state capitol, since, with Gooding active in politics, members of the state government made regular and numerous visits to Gooding. The hotel remained in the hands of the Goodling family, passing from Frank R. Goodling to his son John, and on to grandson, John.

The hotel was sold to the Lincoln Inn each year. The county improved the property by building a three-story addition; which contained the assessor's office, sheriff's office and county jail.

In the early years the city used two rooms in the county building.

The present assessor's office was a library. The present probate judge's office was council meeting room.

Originally, Gooding dominated a part of the hotel; so that Gooding might have a courthouse instead of allowing it to be located in another part of the county, which then included the present Lincoln, Gooding, and part of Jerome counties.

So, whether the county, city or private owners decide to rebuild, or in which style they replace the building, a part of Gooding's colorful history is gone forever.

Johnson Urges Congress To OK Farm Aid Program

By OVID A. MARTIN

AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson urged Congress today to make permanent the farm stabilization program—the backbone of his farm aid program—authority to pay farmers billions of dollars annually for idling land and not needed for crops.

He predicted sharp declines in crop prices if the program isn't extended.

The program, highly controversial in Congress and among farm groups, is likely to become a major farm issue in this year's presidential election campaign.

Voted by Congress in 1965 for a five-year trial, it is scheduled to expire next year.

Payments have been running in excess of $3 billion a year under so-called supply and price-stabilization programs for wheat, feed grains, cotton and soybeans.

This big money measure was part of a seven-point farm and rural-areas aid program the President placed before Congress in a special farm message.

Other main points of the program included:

—A three-year extension of the Food for Freedom program, under which this country provides food-production know-how to developing countries.

—A congressional study of ways to give farmers greater power to bargain for prices.

—Establishment of a "national food bank" under which reserves of wheat, feed grains and soybeans would be stored for emergencies. Such legislation was recommended last year.

—Increasing the outlay for the food-stamp program, which helps feed the poor, from $225 million to $245 million a year.

—Expansion of such programs as long- and grant assistance to small farmers.

—Development of better federal programs in job training and underemployed.

Johnson said the farmer "does not fully—or fairly" share the country's prosperity. "His income lags. It is less than two-thirds the per capita income of the city dweller," he said. "His production costs are rising, and he is trapped in a vicious price-cost squeeze."

The President said agriculture still faces an old problem of overproduction. But progress in solving this problem, he said, has been made under the Food and Agriculture Act of 1965 under which payments and commodity price supports are offered farmers retiring land from crop use when it is not needed.

"To terminate the 1965 act would bring catastrophe and

Transfer Of Troops Is Urged

By JACK HELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., proposed today that the United States transfer troops from Europe to fill manpower needs in Vietnam.

Symington, a member of the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees, is a former Air Force secretary. He told the Senate he will no longer support appropriations for more than one division in Europe. There are the equivalent of four U.S. divisions there now.

His comments came after Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., of the Armed Services Committee, expressed uneasiness about the U.S. position at Khe Sanh, where Marines are awaiting an expected massive Communist assault.

Russell predicted more troops will be sent to Vietnam.

Symington said that if there is a decision to dispatch more fighting men to Asia, "let us send already trained men we have in Europe."

"If things in Vietnam get worse, there will not be much more—a corporal's guard of trained men in this country," he said.

Noting that no European ally has offered to supply fighting men in Vietnam, Symington said the United States no longer should assume the responsibility of defending "prospective nations that don't help us."

In discussing the situation at Khe Sanh, Russell said he was afraid the position may be difficult to defend.

Communist Tanks Seen 50 Miles From Saigon

By GEORGE ESPER

SAIGON (AP) — Communist tanks were reported Monday night only 50 miles northwest of Saigon in their deepest penetration of South Vietnam.

South Vietnamese military headquarters said a force of civilian irregulars and their U.S. Special Forces advisers came on a column of three tanks and a half-tracked armored personnel carrier near the Cambodian border.

The U.S. Command identified the vehicles only as "armored vehicles of an unspecified type" accompanied by an estimated battalion—about 400 men—of enemy troops.

The appearance of Communist armored forces in the area and so far south raised the possibility of a menacing new enemy buildup along the Cambodian border. Previously the presence of enemy tanks had been confirmed only in the northwest corner of the country, near the U.S. Marine combat base at Khe Sanh.

The U.S. Command said the allied force blew up one of the vehicles with antitank rockets and the explosion killed 30 enemy troops.

"To blow up that hard, it had to have a lot of ammunition in it," one U.S. officer said.

Some South Vietnamese

sources said there were reports

the tanks were "Russian T-34s," a World War II weapon.

The U.S. Command said that after nearly two hours of fighting, the vehicles that were still mobile and the remainder of the enemy force broke contact and fled to the west, presumably to Cambodia. But a U.S. spokesman said the enemy later launched a counterattack and the force of about 100 South Vietnamese and Americans then withdrew.

Neither the South Vietnamese

nor American spokesmen had any reports of the armored vehicles opening fire. The U.S.

Command said there were no

American casualties and South

Vietnamese casualties were light.

South Vietnamese headquarters said the government troops suffered no casualties.

Speculation about a new Communist buildup along the Cambodian border was strengthened by another Green Beret ambush

earlier Monday at Loc Ninh, 80 miles north of Saigon. The Americans and their South Vietnamese casualties were again described as light.

6 Die, 65 Hurt As Truck Explodes

MEXICO CITY (AP) — School children and passengers flock to a tank truck that had overturned on a crowded Mexico City street Monday.

The truck exploded, killing six persons and injuring 65, authorities reported.

Many of the injured suffered critical burns from the gasoline that spilled over a wide area.

The truck driver had swerved to avoid a speeding car, police said. The accident occurred as children were coming out of a nearby primary school.

The U.S. Command said that critical elements in but he indicated, without saying so specifically,

that Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark was pushing it.

Representatives of the attorney general met during the morning with Alex Dirksen, Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., floor manager of the bill, and other key senators.

In discussing the situation at Khe Sanh, Russell said he was afraid the position may be difficult to defend.

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP)

A Cuban ship lowered

three men in a rowboat into the Atlantic off the Virginia

Capes today and then proceeded to ram the small boat and open fire on the men in the water, the Coast Guard said.

Only 90,000 votes were expected to be cast, however as little interest was generated during the month-long campaign.

If no candidate receives a majority a runoff will be held March 12 between the two high men.

The new congressman may have to defend his seat again next June in the regular election.

Evers, 45, created only a mild ripple in normally white political circles when he announced for the post. Evers has been field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People since his brother Medgar's death in an ambush in 1963.

Mississippians Vote For New Congressman

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) —

Southwest Mississippi voters turned out in moderate numbers today to elect a new congressman as the Justice Department watched with more than normal interest.

The field of candidates include Negro civil rights leader Charles Evers, a white Republican and five white Democrats.

A Justice Department spokesman said 150 federal poll watchers were assigned to observe voting procedures in seven of the 12 counties of the 3rd Congressional District.

This was 50 more than the number assigned to the same seven counties in the November state general election.

The seven counties include Amite, Claiborne, Franklin, Hinds, Jefferson, Warren and Wilkinson. All have large percentages of Negro voters.

The spokesman said there had been no reports of irregularities at mid-morning.

The candidates are bidding for the seat vacated when John Bell Williams retired after 21 years to become governor.

Polls opened at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m. The weather was crisp and sunny with temperatures in the 60s.

There are about 185,000 registered voters in the 3rd district, including about 63,000 Negroes.

Cooperation In Fighting Fire At Gooding Landmark Praised

By ROBERT VANAUDELIN

Times-News Staff Writer

GOODING — People from miles around watched a historic landmark fall Monday as the Lincoln Inn and County Courthouse building was destroyed by fire.

Hundreds of persons from Gooding, neighboring cities and neighboring counties watched as firemen attempted to bring the fire under control before the entire block of buildings and businesses was wiped out by the blaze.

Some people were fascinated by the blaze, but others who know of the historic significance of the old building watched with saddened eyes and heart.

The fire was kept from spreading from the Lincoln Inn and Courthouse building — the building housed the Lincoln Inn, district court, probate court, sheriff's office, assessor's office, and other county offices and the building adjoining it was not destroyed.

Remember the old saying, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again." Well, that is what happened when Idaho Power officials attempted to dynamite the breezeway. They tried three times. On the first try, the electric fuse did not go off. On the second try, the line to the fuse melted. On the final and third try, a blasting cap that you have to light to set off was used. The dynamite went off.

Although a historic landmark is gone, citizens of Gooding learned what cooperation means. People from neighboring cities and counties helped to control the fire. Some helped move records out of the building before the fire became too much for them and others helped to extinguish the blaze.

Sheriff Vern Royle praised both local and neighboring firemen for their great work in fighting the blaze and keeping it from spreading.

Thousands of dollars worth of property, equipment and personal belongings were lost in the fire. Also destroyed were several rifles and guns in the sheriff's office, including two new ones which Sheriff Vern Royle had recently purchased.

Although there was no serious injury, two men were overcome by smoke. Sheriff Royle, Ray Pruitt, an insurance salesman, both passed out because of the smoke while trying to remove records from the courthouse.

They came to after being taken outside to fresh air. Then both aided firemen in fighting the blaze.

2 Hospitalized From Crash At Strevel

Students of the College of Southern Idaho will have a March 12-18 break at the end of mid-term, according to Dr. Adele Thompson, dean of women.

Members of the Twin Falls Toastmaster Club will hold an annual speech contest March 1 beginning at 9 a.m. in the Colonial Room of the Rogerson Hotel.

Court Affirms

Divorce For Dr. Saviors

BOISE (AP) — The Idaho Supreme Court Monday affirmed a Fifth District Court divorce decree in which it favored Dr. George W. Saviors and granted no alimony to his ex-wife, Patricia P. Saviors.

Mrs. Saviors had sued her husband for divorce, but the court granted Saviors the divorce instead, dividing the community property equally and giving actual custody of the couple's three children to Mrs. Saviors, providing she remains in the family home at Ketchum.

The unanimous supreme court opinion said the district court was not abusing its discretion in failing to award permanent alimony to Mrs. Saviors because, it said, she was the spouse primarily responsible for the marriage's failure.

The high court said Mrs. Saviors was also fully able to support herself as a professional architect.

Saviors was awarded legal custody of the children and his wife retained actual custody. In the supreme court's opinion, the district court was upheld in forbidding Mrs. Saviors from inviting any social visitors in the family home except members and friends of the children.

DAUGHTER LISTED

WENDELL — Sharon A. Gunning, Wendell, was listed with 42 College of Idaho students heading the Dean's list for scholastic achievement during the 1967 fall semester. The 42 students each received a grade point average of 4.00. Miss Gunning is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Gunning.

ORDER IN EFFECT

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commerce Department said today it's order to copper refiners to reserve their entire output for defense use will remain in effect at least for the present.

Nonwhite Youths Are Without Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government says nearly one-third of job-seeking nonwhite youths—the vast bulk of them Negroes—are unemployed in the nation's 20 largest metropolitan areas.

A newly completed Bureau of Labor Statistics breakdown on unemployment shows the jobless rate for all potential non-white workers is at least triple that of whites in six of the cities.

It says 32.7 per cent of nonwhites aged 16 to 19 were without work—compared with an 11 per cent jobless rate for white teenagers in the same 20 metropolitan areas.

The report, based on unemployment last year but believed to accurately reflect current urban employment patterns, appears certain to generate concern over the nation's big cities for another summer of predicted racial violence.

In the St. Louis metropolitan area, the over-all nonwhite unemployment was more than four times the white rate. No city-by-city breakdown was provided on teen-age unemployment by race.

The figures on total unemployment varied widely from area to area.

In Detroit, Pittsburgh and St. Louis, more than 10 per cent of the nonwhites in the work force were unemployed.

In Washington, only 3.2 per cent of the nonwhites in the work force were unemployed. Nonwhite unemployment was at least three times that of white persons in Chicago, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Baltimore as well as St. Louis.

Cars Crash; 1 Hurt, Home Is Damaged

BUHL — A buhl man was injured, two vehicles demolished and a house damaged in a Sunday night accident, Deputy Sheriff Curtis Pryor reported.

Darwin L. Clark, 21, Buhl, was hospitalized with a fractured leg and other injuries.

The accident occurred Sunday night on a one-and-one-quarter miles stretch of Buhl or a county road.

The officer said a 1961 vehicle driven by Larry Williams, 17, Route 1, Buhl, was passing another vehicle and did not see the Clark automobile approaching.

He attempted to pull back to his own lane of traffic but was too close to avoid the on-coming vehicle.

Both vehicles were demolished, officers said, and a wheel from one of them was torn off and crashed into the front of a nearby home owned by Mrs. Leonard Hudson, Route 1, breaking a window and damaging plaster on one wall.

Mr. Williams and his passenger, Terry Bleckford, 17, Buhl, escaped injury.

4 Charged With Damage To Property

RUPERT—Three Rupert men and a juvenile have been charged with malicious injury to property in connection with a bottle-dropping incident on Interstate 80 Sunday.

Jerry Vibbert, 18, Tom Vibbert, 18, and Roger Fetzor, 21, were each sentenced to 60 days in the Minidoka County jail following an arraignment Monday afternoon before Probate Judge LeRoy Blacker. A juvenile petition was filed on behalf of the fourth person and he was released.

The four were charged after the windshield of a truck driven by Larry Price was broken by beer bottles dropped from an overpass on the highway. Idaho State Police Officer Ron Jolly said he apprehended the men after the bottles dropped around his patrol car, although no damage was done to it. He was patrolling the area at the time.

An additional charge of contributing to the delinquency of minors was also filed against Fetzor, and he was sentenced to an additional 60 days in jail for that offense.

The Vibberts were charged with illegal consumption, and 20 days in jail were added to their original sentence. The three were also ordered to make restitution for the broken windshield.

Miss Jaycox said no date has been set for the wedding but that it would be a small one in her home town of LaVore.

War News Restrictions Investigated By Moss

By WILLIAM MORAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman John E. Moss of the House government information subcommittee, saying he's investigating new U.S. restrictions on release of Vietnam war news.

Contests reports of the war's progress must not be censored.

"It is more important now than at any time since our involvement there that we be fully informed about the war," the

California Democrat said Monday night in an interview.

Moss said he has asked Phil

Goulding, assistant secretary of defense, for a full explanation of the restrictions, which were imposed in Saigon Monday.

In addition, Moss said, his subcommittee staff is asking for a complete file on all cables and messages between Saigon and Washington dealing with the matter.

The U.S. Command imposed restrictions on release to the press of information dealing with American casualties, damage done by enemy gunfire and the number of enemy shall fired when such information is considered to be of intelligence value to the Communists.

A Pentagon spokesman said

the restrictions are not expected to affect the daily release of casualty lists and the Defense

Department's weekly report on the overall totals of men killed and wounded.

There was no immediate indication of full censorship on news

dispatches, as was the case during World War II and the Re-con War.

Brig. Gen. Winant Sidle, chief of information for the U.S. Military Command, issued the directive. He planned to meet with Saigon newsmen today to clarify it. Among questions expected to be raised was whether the restrictions mean correspondents no longer will be allowed to report what they observe in the field.

Sidle's directive said U.S. authorities have "always reserved

the prerogative of withholding U.S. and South Vietnamese information which would give troops important aid and comfort to the enemy."

"We know what it is. It cannot be for security reasons are understandable. But he added:

"The measure of progress of the war is important and we must know what it is. It cannot be sidered."

The Closed Door

There is a growing controversy in Idaho about closed door city council meetings. Fortunately, this is not the case in Twin Falls. Nor does it seem to be a problem in most other Magic Valley communities.

But it is a problem worthy of discussion by the public and the press.

The city council is the backbone of the American government. It is the bottom rung in the ladder of the American way of life. Our representative form of government really means something through the city council because the council members are not that far removed from the voters.

If a citizen has a question, more often than not he can call the councilman on the telephone or speak to the councilman in person and get a swift answer.

Being elected by the people, the members of any city council have a duty to represent those people. And how else can a councilman do his job than keep the public informed?

Information is one of the basic rights due the American public.

When a city council will ignore those rights by holding closed door meetings it can be deemed nothing less than a slap in the public's face. A violation of the public trust.

True, no official action can be taken in a closed door meeting. But it is also true that courses of action can be worked out this way, thereby saving, possibly, the councilman some public embarrassment.

We feel any city council business is the public's business.

On the other hand, any city council that keeps the press and the public informed can escape any further charges of misconduct.

What, for instance, if all the arrangements on Twin Falls' new water project had been conducted behind closed doors? Can you imagine the public wrath? If the arrangements had been made this way, it is a near certainty the bond would not have passed. And if it had we are sure the council would have been eventually charged with misconduct—even if misconduct did not exist.

The Twin Falls city council is to be lauded for not engaging in the practice of holding closed door sessions. The council, many times, has come under fire for its public discussions on city issues. But the problem has been small in comparison to what it could have been had the issues been discussed in secret.

Another approach to the question concerns the press. Members of the press will eventually get any story—one way or another. Isn't it better for the press to get the question and answers first hand, rather than by other methods?

The closed door question has come up in Boise, and for years in Nampa the practice of using secret meetings has been observed.

Idaho law provides for this question, but it would probably take a Supreme Court decision to finally resolve the matter.

We feel confident the closed door problem will never come up in Magic Valley. Other parts of the state should be so fortunate.

Freedom To Trade

Pressures are building in Congress for tighter import curbs. President Johnson's efforts to reduce the balance-of-payments deficit by restrictions on travel and foreign investments have escalated demands for imposition of import restraints.

Foreign businessmen warn against such action. A panelist at a New York conference of the Belgian-American Chamber of Commerce in the United States said a trade barrier around the United States would lead to reciprocal action by its trading partners.

What he said did not make much sense. Many countries have effective trade barriers against American goods. The U.S. is being flooded by foreign-built automobiles, again'st which there is a 15 per cent tariff. But countries in which they are built have a 50 per cent import duty on U.S. cars, effectively excluding them.

Foreign trade is capitalism's life-line. To foul it with import quotas and other barriers would undermine the economies of all free nations. But that is what European countries, especially members of the Common Market, have done.

Interest In Your Future

GOOD OLD MARY

Dear Mr. Spectator:
I always read the paper from back to front. Want you to know that your column and "Up With Words" makes it easier to find the front page.

When I was a little girl my father taught me a very naughty rhyme, much to my mother's dismay:

She set her self—
Every time it wagged its tail
It spanked itself!

When I was 10 I learned a little rhyme all by myself:

Mary had a little lamb

It was well trained, no doubt,

For every time that Jim came in

The little lamb went out!

Keep your column on the light side, Lord knows we need it!

THE CHICKENS:

The doves and the hawks have now been joined by the chickens.

Chickens are these characters who are loudly moaning, "The Communists are winning. We've had it!"

There's a big difference between chickens and doves and between chickens and hawks.

Doves believe the Vietnam war is pointless and that the United States has no business in it. They believed this even when things were going better for us.

Hawks have believed all along that the United States should quit playing for a tie and go for broke.

But chickens didn't have too much to say to the hawkish money lender. So he came up with this helpful plan called "Ready Reserve," which enables us to keep right on writing checks as if we were spending our own money instead of funds the friendly lender is happily advancing, just so we may not be embarrassed.

How's THAT for friendliness?

(And to think we actually used to worry over being overdrawn at the bank!)

Well, the boom in budget-building is dreamy if it works. We can spend money we don't have to buy things we don't need to impress people we don't like, and who's to worry?

Still, there's one small flaw in this Utopia. Eventually, if not later, we have to pay back the friendly money the friendly lender has bestowed on us friendly—rely it if for no other reason than to keep him friendly.

We wouldn't want to make a friend unfriendly, would we, friend?

You bet we wouldn't!

WASHINGTON — Sometimes there are signs that this is not such a bad country after all.

Two of our most attractive citizens are running — admittedly not very fast — for President, and the fact that George Romney and Gene McCarthy are even listened to offer hope for nice people everywhere. If decency and niceness were enough for a President these days, Romney and McCarthy would run a dead heat for the job. They are the kind of men

Main Street instinctively cottons to even when it is disagreeing with what they have to say. A man known he can trust them with his pocketbook; his wife, or even his girl friend. They are men who can be depended upon to take the proper attitude toward LSD and dirty books. They derive comfort from their religion without being exhortationists about it.

I suppose McCarthy doesn't have a chance but, without derogating Lyndon Johnson, who has stood up so well in the face of adversity, I wish he did. It would be a reward for Gene McCarthy's willingness to go for broke for something in which he believes. This has taken guts, and the disposition to do what is right.

This is an appealing quality to this generation, if only because he respects the importance to club the voter over the hand with it.

They call McCarthy a one-issue candidate. He is said to be running exclusively against Vietnam. This is not quite true, because he plumps unceasingly for candor in government and in his personal life. He is a welcome departure from backroom politicking. It is, after all, rewarding to observe a President who is armed only with principle.

Besides, Vietnam is a pretty good issue; people are still dying over there.

There is an attractiveness in the way McCarthy has countered Lyndon Johnson's pledge-card gimmick, in which voters are required to identify themselves as Johnson's backers.

Predictably, McCarthy has called this "an invasion of the secrecy of the ballot," which it probably is. But he has kept his sense of humor. He quips about the administration "wanting to sign up everybody"—a sly and telling reference to the Senate's Gulf of Tonkin resolution and Johnson's requirement that the Joint Chiefs of Staff put in writing their conviction that Khe Sanh will not be another Dien Bien Phu.

Romney also reacted like people when another citizen accused him of being drunk. Genuinely shocked, as any upright individual would, after Lyndon Johnson and Dick Nixon and Nelson Rockefeller would be struck dead rather than admit to having been brainwashed on the Vietnam war. Romney's plus is that he is not another Olen Blum Phu.

Romney's appeal is that he not only denounces being a politician but acts the plain-citizen role he claims. He is content with saying things that no politician in his right or left, sane or otherwise, would utter. Lyndon Johnson and Dick Nixon and Nelson Rockefeller would be struck dead rather than admit to having been brainwashed on the Vietnam war. Romney's plus is that he is not another Olen Blum Phu.

These are, perhaps, trivial things, but they are important and refreshing because they are unusual. In the case of both McCarthy and Romney, the voter is likely to find himself in definitely pleased to meet a candidate who doesn't look or talk like one. If neither has a chance, perhaps their campaign will convince the more conventional candidates that themselves are playing themselves.

In the preservation of self-respect.

WAYNE BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Aortic Aneurysm

Q—My doctor says I have a small aortic aneurysm. How long will it be before it has to be operated on? What are the usual symptoms? What are the chances of recovery?

A—What a diverticulum is to the digestive tract, an aneurysm is to a blood vessel. Since the aorta extends from the heart to the lower part of the abdomen the symptoms depend on the location and the size of the out-pouching. In some but not all cases, pain is a prominent symptom. In some, the aneurysm is visible in the neck. Encouraging advances have been made in the surgical treatment of this disease. Because surgery offers the only chance for recovery, it is not wise to delay it, especially since there is always the danger that the aneurysmal sac will burst and cause a serious internal hemorrhage.

Q—My husband has amyotrophic lateral sclerosis. What are the effects of this disease? What causes it? Can anything be done for it?

A—Recent studies indicate that this disease is caused by a deficiency in pancreatic enzymes. In a series of 10 persons with this disease, pancreatic supplement was given and marked improvement was observed in four. It is believed that in the remaining six, this treatment was not started early enough in the course of the disease. This new treatment is the only ray of hope for victims of this progressive disease.

Q—I have recently gone to work in an office where there are about 50 people. A man in the center of this area sprays a glue that contains toluene and carbon tetrachloride in processing pictures. The rest of us suffer from headaches, dizziness, and smarting of the eyes. What can we do?

A—The maximum allowable concentration of toluene vapor in the air is 200 and of carbon tetrachloride 25 parts per million. A short exposure to 600 ppm of toluene will cause fatigue, mental confusion, nausea, headache and dizziness. Exposure to a high concentration of carbon tetrachloride causes unconsciousness and injury to the liver and kidneys. These substances should not be used indoors without an effective exhaust fan and periodic air sampling to determine whether the limits of safety are being exceeded.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

JAMES MARLOW

The Big "Plus"

(Editor's Note: Mr. Marlow is still ill. Today's column is written by Edmond LeBreton, Associated Press writer.)

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's proposed tax on American travel outside the Western Hemisphere has a big plus behind it that fits his income tax-like proposal lacks: the support of Rep. Wilbur D. Mills.

But the Arkansas Democrat and chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee—who steers the tax-writing panel according to his own economic views and not necessarily the White House's—may exact a price for his support the administration finds steep.

Mills has told associates there is no chance of corralling the House to pass a foreign travel bill unless it contains some attractions for members worried about competition that imports pose for products of their districts.

The push in Congress for quotas on imports or other similar devices won't be advocated until international trade negotiations are completed. This has been the proclaimed goal of U.S. policy from the days of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Cordell Hull.

Today's travel-bill supporters gained down until they are relatively insignificant and the United States was believed ready to tackle next the non-tariff barriers to trade—quotas, border taxes, export subsidies and the like.

But the chronic U.S. deficit in international payments has strengthened the hand of those advocating protection of U.S. industries in the domestic market. This is true even though the United States has maintained a surplus of exports over imports. The payments deficit resulted from other factors, such as tourist spending, investment abroad and government military and aid outlays.

The administration has promised recommendations to improve the U.S. trade surplus as part of the larger program for righting the payments balance. Mills has pointedly told the administration to hurry up.

The question now worrying administration strategists is whether Mills will insist on stronger measures than the U.S. trade negotiators would recommend as part of the package.

The General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, to which this country and its principal trading partners give allegiance, sanctions a few kinds of protection devices while banning most.

But if the United States tried to institute border taxes on imports, for instance, it would likely provoke complaints to GATT, which distinguishes among the kinds of taxes to be equated. The U.S. system, under which an import levy is imposed by states and local subdivisions, is not exactly paralleled elsewhere.

In any case, much of the clamor in Congress is for concealing more drastic measures, such as quotas. Mills himself has introduced a textile quota bill, one of many such measures in behalf of a multitude of industries.

Mills has not pushed his quota bill, but it does nothing to diminish his bargaining power with the administration.

The push in Congress for quotas, however, is unlikely to succeed. The U.S. system, under which an import levy is imposed by states and local subdivisions, is not exactly paralleled elsewhere.

In any case, much of the clamor in Congress is for concealing more drastic measures, such as

They Are Easier To Solve

NEW YORK (AP)—Jumping to conclusions:

Car thieves cause more trouble to police departments than murderers. There are more of them, and they are harder to catch. Murders are generally crimes of passion, and such crimes are usually easier to solve than those committed for money.

One of the puzzling things about having a mislabeled teen-age daughter today is that when she leaves the house you never can be sure by the way she's dressed whether she's going ice skating, to a ballet lesson, or to a school dance.

Many people can successfully write down the names of the 50 states in 10 minutes or less. But you can usually win money by getting any middle-aged man that in the same length of time he can't remember his social security number, his auto license number, his zip code number, and the old home telephone number of the last girl he dated across when he married his wife.

Aside from its over exploitation of sex, Hollywood's worst habit is the making of those windy color epics so long that they have to have an intermission. Why pay an extra buck or so at the box office to see such a film when it's been on television and enjoyed 12 or 15 intermissions?

But chickens didn't have too much to say to the hawkish money lender. So he came up with this helpful plan called "Ready Reserve," which enables us to keep right on writing checks as if we were spending our own money instead of funds the friendly lender is happily advancing, just so we may not be embarrassed.

How's THAT for friendliness?

(And to think we actually used to worry over being overdrawn at the bank!)

Well, the boom in budget-building is dreamy if it works. We can spend money we don't have to buy things we don't need to impress people we don't like, and who's to worry?

Still, there's one small flaw in this Utopia. Eventually, if not later, we have to pay back the friendly money the friendly lender has bestowed on us friendly—rely it if for no other reason than to keep him friendly.

We wouldn't want to make a friend unfriendly, would we, friend?

You bet we wouldn't!

won't run into so many of those folks, fellows who proclaim, "I'm just a poor old ole country boy tryin' to git along."

Maybe what this country needs is a fat man as president. When William Howard Taft lived in the White House—from 1909 to 1913—the country had rarely ever been calmer at home or freer from wars and alarms abroad. Taft weighed between 300 and 334 pounds. Could there be a connection between presidential girth and national peace?

If I could be any age I wanted and live wherever I chose, I'd fit in the moment to be 30 and live in an apartment in London with Julie Christie as a neighbor on one side, Julie Andrews on the other, and Audrey Hepburn as the tenant in the apartment across from me.

It gives more of a feeling of life to browse in an old-fashioned pawnshop than in a modern art gallery. There is no better wear and tear of this world, the torn battering of its dreams, than in a pawnshop unless it is an unkempt and abandoned cemetery.

If I could be any age I wanted and live wherever I chose, I'd fit in the moment to be 30 and live in a studio in the Washington room, then seeking the office boy to come in and use three or four to perform the same chore. But that's democracy.

Even more than men, women are likely to judge the desirability of a thing by its price. If beer were to suddenly go to $10 a bottle and champagne fall to a dime a bucket, nine out of ten women would immediately decide they disliked champagne because of its nasty bubbles and perferred beer because it has such lovely foam.

Winter has been too much with us. It is a long time between Aprils, isn't it? I'd give a million dollars right now for the sight of one golden dandelion.

Farms are getting fewer, cities getting larger. While this trend has its disadvantages, it also promises one great boon.

At future cocktail parties you can sit down and have a nice conversation with your neighbor.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I love my wife and she loves me. No problems whatsoever. However, after 30 years of married life I still believe my wife has an attractive flabby, O, she may be a little flabby in spots, and flat in others, but I'm no Tarzan-built fellow either anymore.

Over the years I have bought my wife several very beautiful sheer nightgowns to wear in our privacy, but she has never worn any of them. Some have been in their original boxes for 25 years!

I don't think there's anything wrong with me, Abby, but I would like to see my little darling wearing such alluring apparel once in a while. Especially now, for it might pick up my interest a little when I need it most.

I wonder if other husbands have this problem? If so, perhaps if you were to advise me in your column, you could help us all.

THE OLD SARGE

DEAR SARGE: I can't speak for husbands, but many wives have a "love-it-or-hate-it" complex. Simply tell your little darling that it is finer than she thinks.

DEAR ABBY: Congratulations for telling "Mauled in Philly" to quit her job. But first she should know her boss that she has an "Invisible Protector."

The next time he tries to grab her, she should get down on her hands and knees and start to pray RIGHT OUT LOUD! "O, God, our Heavenly Father, please protect Mr. Blank from the beast that has taken possession of his soul at this moment. And provide me with strength to carry on for the sake of my precious children and my poor invalid mother who has worn herself out for me. O, Father, I need Your protection and strength NOW! Thank you, Dear Lord! Thank you!"

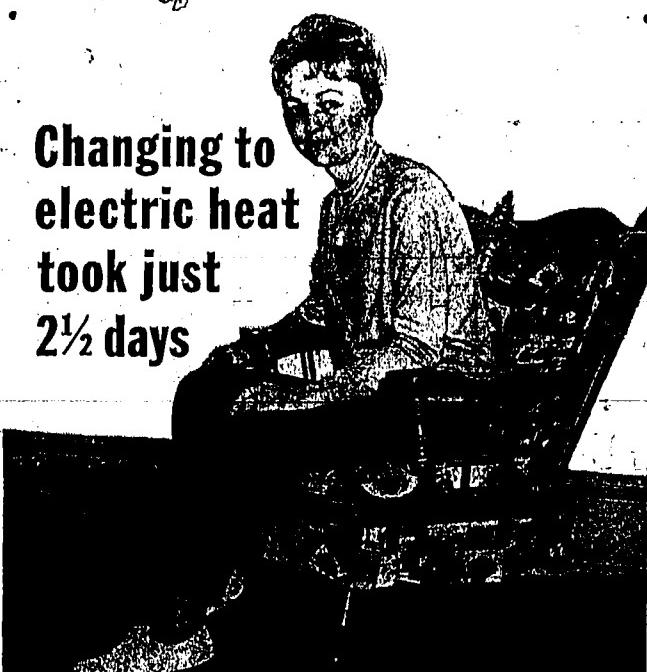

I can promise you that your boss will never molest you again.

EXPERIENCED IN BOULDER

DEAR ABBY: "Mauled in Philly" (and all other secretaries with bosses who have fun games in mind) wouldn't have to worry if they followed my instructions.

Be super-efficient and all business. When the boss asks you to do something snap to attention, say "Yes Sir," and do it "on the double." Never look him in the eye and don't spend one extra second near his desk.

MEETING PLANNED
BOISE (AP) — A Saturday meeting of the Idaho State Commission on the Arts and Humanities was announced Monday by state President James C. Herndon of Salmon.

The commission will consider requests from organizations desiring assistance through the commission for federal matching funds for the 1968-69 (fiscal) year, she said.

YOUTH SENTENCED
POCATELLO (AP) — A 17-year-old McCammon youth was sentenced Monday to up to 15 years in prison for the second-degree murder of his brother-in-law.

Sixth District Judge Arthur P. Oliver sentenced Frank Clifton Jones for the Nov. 1, 1967, slaying of Sidney Dopp, 20, McCammon. Jones had pleaded guilty to the murder charge.

Dopp's body was found on a McCammon street and had been shot through the neck by a rifle, police said.

MUST USE BELTS
BOISE (AP) — State agency or department heads approving travel expense claims from employees must now require the travelers to certify they used seat belts if they traveled by automobile.

Gov. Don Samuelson issued a directive that, whether private or state-owned cars were used, all state employees must use seat belts — and if they don't, their expense claims will not be honored by the state.

STAND REVERSED
BOISE (AP) — The Boise City Council reversed an earlier stand and rejected all five offers for a cable television franchise in the Boise area.

The council had asked the advice of the Idaho Public Utilities Commission on the bid consideration and the commission said that the information in the franchise applications was too incomplete for the PUC to make recommendations.

The council tossed out an earlier-passed ordinance which would have awarded the franchise to a joint venture of Boise's two television stations, KBOI and KTVB.

SALARIES RAISED
BOISE (AP) — Salary increases of $200 to $680 have been approved for teachers in the Boise public schools for the next school year. School Board Chairman Mrs. Lucy Daines reported Tuesday.

The $200 boost for beginning teachers with college degrees will put the salary at $3,600. Mrs. Daines said. Other increases will be based on experience and training.

Mrs. Daines said the beginning salary of $3,600 compares with a national average of $3,819 for starting pay.

Closing Stocks And Markets

Stocks

CLOSING SUMMARY

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed higher today after erasing an early loss. Trading was fairly active.

Strength in glamour stocks and selected issues showed at the start and gradually fanned out, leaving a plurality of gainers.

The advance was irregular, however. Enough investment buying of blue chips materialized to give the Dow Jones Industrial average a fairly good gain.

Occidental Petroleum was up more than a point, overtaking Gulf & Western, a fractional gainer, as most active stock.

Also heavily traded, Control Data rose about 4%; "Automobile" Sprinkler and Monogram Industries about 3% each; Allis-Chalmers, Republic Corp., and Federal Paper Board a point or more.

Bendix and General Dynamics were active losers of a point or so.

Anaconda and Phelps Dodge rose about a point each in a generally higher copper group.

The American Stock Exchange was generally higher.

Federation Will Protest Decision

By MARTIN ZUCKER

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Eva Klobukowska said Monday her boyfriend caught at suggestions that she may not be all female and the Polish Track and Field Federation said it will protest the decision to take away her world records and medals.

Miss Klobukowska, who holds an Olympic gold medal and shares a world sprint record was ordered stripped of her records and medals Sunday because she failed a sex test before a meet last year. She is engaged to a student at Warsaw's Economics College, which also attends.

Zbigniew Keskiewicz, secretary-general of the Polish Track and Field Association said, "We have not yet been officially advised of the decision but once we get all the facts our board will meet and a protest seems inevitable."

The decision of the International Amateur Athletic Federation in Frankfurt, Germany, Sunday to withdraw ratification of Miss Klobukowska's records and medals has stirred up anger, resentment and accusations here.

The Polish girl, a center of controversy for some years, has been given visual test for the European championships in Budapest in 1966.

But last year, at the European Cup Finals in Kiev, Russia, she failed another test based on a chromosome study of skin tissue. She withdrew from the competition and has not raced since then.

Keskiewicz said that Sunday's ruling was contrary to an October decision of the federation's European committee closing the book on the case as long as Miss Klobukowska didn't compete.

Miss Klobukowska is co-holder of the 100 meters record and member of the Polish relay record-holding team.

NFL And AFL Will Try To Solidify

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Pele Rozelle, commissioner of professional football, said Monday the American and National Football Leagues will try to solidify and stabilize newer teams before expanding again.

To this end, he said, a committee was named during the recent meeting of the professional leagues to explore ways of beefing up expansion squads named in recent years.

Any changes probably would involve rules governing the waiver procedure, trades of injury reserves, Rozelle told newsmen. He was in Atlanta for a speech to a civic club.

One possibility would be to "legislate intelligence," he said. "We might say that a club could not trade its first draft choice—or maybe even its first and second draft choices."

Rozelle predicted that further expansion would not be considered before the early 1970s.

"After the two leagues are combined, as one in 1970, he said, two more clubs might be added."

"There is a great deal of interest in Birmingham," he said in answer to a question. He also mentioned Seattle, Portland and Phoenix as strong possibilities.

Kentucky Earns Berth In Tourney

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Fifth-ranked Kentucky sewed up its 23rd Southeastern Conference title and earned a berth in the NCAA regional with an 80-57 victory over Auburn Monday night.

With the Wildcats trio of sophomores leading the way, Kentucky guaranteed a record (16-0) appearance in the national tournament as Coach Adolph Rupp goes in quest of his fifth national title.

Dan Issel led the Kentucky scoring with 21 points while two sophomores, Mike Pratt and Mike Clegg, poured in 16 each.

The victory was Kentucky's 20th of the season against four losses, one of them a one-point loss to the Tigers at Auburn Jan. 20. The Wildcats are 14-3 in the SEC.

Auburn, now 13-12 overall, is 7-9 in the conference.

Olympics Will Go On No Matter Who Withdraws

By JOHN FARROW

LONDON (AP) — While Avery Brundage insisted in London Monday that no one country or group of countries can prevent the Summer Olympics from taking place, 32 African nations voted in the Congo to withdraw from the Mexico Games.

As Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, said he did not expect to call a special general meeting of the IOC to discuss the South Africa controversy, the Italian Olympic Committee called for exactly such a meeting.

The IOC has decided to bar South Africa from the 1968 Games after barring the country from the 1964 Olympics.

A number of African nations already had announced their intention to boycott the Games, which start Oct. 12, but the Supreme Council for Sports, meeting in Brazzaville, decided that the 32 affiliated countries should take such action as a body.

Russia has not announced any action it intends to take but has indicated it might support any boycott by the African nations.

A Russian veto could result in other Iron Curtain countries pulling out.

None of these moves and possibilities, however, bother

Brundage, the 80-year-old Olympic chief from Chicago.

"No matter what countries withdraw, the Games in Mexico will go on," he told The Associated Press after hearing about the African council vote. "We're not involved in politics. The Olympics want the youth of the world to get together. You can be sure the Mexico Olympics will go on as planned."

South Africa was barred in 1963 because of the country's racist policies. The country was reinstated by the IOC after promising to select an Integrated team, traveling and living together, wearing similar uniforms and marching under the same flag.

She declined however, to permit competition between whites and nonwhites within South Africa.

Coach Certain ABA Has Found Home But Not Sure About Team

By TOM SALADINO

TEANECK, N.J. (AP) — Max Zaslawsky, general manager and coach of the New Jersey Americans, is certain the American Basketball Association has found a home, but he isn't quite sure about his own team.

The fledgling league, which began operation at the start of the 1967-68 season, hasn't exactly set attendance records, but Zaslawsky says this was not unexpected.

The 11-team league, which in

Participation By Soviets Is Still Question

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Olympic Committee said Monday, Soviet participation in the Mexico City Summer Olympics is still an open question.

Readmission of South Africa to the Games has cast doubt on Soviet plans for the Olympics starting Oct. 12, the spokesman said.

A Soviet boycott would be a major blow to the Olympic Games, which often result in unofficial Soviet-American duels for medals.

Asked whether there is a chance the big Soviet team might withdraw, the spokesman said:

"I cannot tell you anything definite now."

T.F. Men Lead In Handicap Event

NAMPA, Idaho (AP) — New leaders took over in all categories except scratch doubles after a week of bowling in the Idaho Men's State Bowling Tournament.

Weber jumped out to an early lead, increased it to 47-38 at the half and it was the biggest margin when the game ended.

In addition to the top three scores, Weber's Roger Reid and Larry Horig also hit double figures with 10 apiece.

Weber State Rolls To 19th Win Of Year

Cincinnati Signs Offensive End

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals announced Monday they have signed offensive end Bob Trumphy, one of their 12th-round choices in the recent college player draft.

Murtaugh, Rockland To Resume A-4 Meet

BURLEY — Defending state Billy Neuberger and Gary Queen and district champion Murtaugh, Rockland is paced by Ed Nelson, a 15-point-per-game man, the latter, as always with the short Murtaugh team, will be decided on the backboards, probably.

It will be closer in the one-game affair with undefeated Oakley standing in the wings waiting for a challenger. The winner of the Murtaugh-Rockland clash faces the task of beating Oakley twice, something no team has managed this year. If anyone but the Hornets are to advance to state from this tournament.

Murtaugh took two decisions from Rockland during the Magic Valley Conference title chase. The Red Devils will be pitting their strong one-two punch of There's more than one Canadian whisky up there to choose from. So, when you want a really great whisky, just say, "Canadian Club, please."

That way you can't help but get the whisky that's bold enough to be lighter than them all.

Look at the North hand. You have a perfect 16-point no-trump opening bid.

Your partner opens with one no-trump himself and, since that shows 16 to 18 points, your partnership total is from 32 to 34. If he has 18 only, you don't want plays dummy's queen because West might have led from the king. East plays the king and South has to scramble for his contract.

His best play is to take this ace right away and run off four clubs. He discards the three of spades from dummy. Then he tries hearts and when the jack drops on the second lead, he has four heart tricks. He has eight of spades on the fourth heart and is now ready to think about the queen of diamonds. A lot will depend on the East-West discards on clubs and hearts. East should let two spades go and most Wests will discard two spades also. In that case, South may throw West in with his last spade and make him lead a diamond.

An alert West will discard the deuce of diamonds and conceal his six spot. Then, if South leads a spade, West gets two spade tricks.

Of course, South can always guess where the queen of diamonds is. In any event, it is a tough contract when East holds the king. With any other lead, or with the king in the West hand, South would have had a cinch.

You would like to bid four no-trump as a strong no-trump call, rather than Blackwood. We strongly recommend this one modification in use of Blackwood, which is that, when your partner opens in no-trump, the immediate raise to four no-trump is just as raise, not a demand for aces.

South has 17 points, plus two 10s, and bids six happily. The jack of spades is opened and he

Scummy Problem?*Tell Your Folks

Dear Walt: Twice in the past few days from Shakespeare's blood-week I got up in the morning to bathe ("Hamlet") and "Much Ado About Nothing" was a "whore" soaped both! This morning on our car windows. This morning the same dirty message was, a good answer for you (and us), on the cement walk in front of our house, this time in spray paint. I washed the car windows and painted over the cement, but one morning I know my parents will see it and then my sister (Jane) will really be in trouble. She can't think who would do this, and I can't either. The two nights I stayed up to catch the guy, no one came. Don't say to talk to my parents, because Jane would die.—Understanding Brother.

Dear Brother: Even if you notify the police, they won't be able to provide a dusk-to-dawn stakeout to catch the sicker. And you certainly can't patrol each night when you should be sleeping. So sooner or later your parents are going to get look at the scribbles. It would be better if you broke the news to them. How? "Dad, some crook is going around town writing all sorts of stupid things to bug nice girls. The other day I found . . ." —One P.S.: If the messages ever turn from misstatements to threats, notify the police at once! —Walt.

GOOD NEIGHBORS

Dear Ele and Walt: My parents are jealous of our next door neighbors because I spend so much time there. There is nothing to do at home, and I love to do things. So I visit the Smiths. They are in their 30s and have two boys a little younger than me. We play pool and talk and have lots of fun. But the biggest reason I go over there is that the parents think like adults but understand teenagers and don't make me feel like some midget or something. Now my parents say I'm even though the Smiths ask me why I don't drop in any more. I don't know what to do and I'm getting madder at my parents. —Understanding Brother.

Dear Brother: Even if you notify the police, they won't be able to provide a dusk-to-dawn stakeout to catch the sicker. And you certainly can't patrol each night when you should be sleeping. So sooner or later your parents are going to get look at the scribbles. It would be better if you broke the news to them. How? "Dad, some crook is going around town writing all sorts of stupid things to bug nice girls. The other day I found . . ." —One P.S.: If the messages ever turn from misstatements to threats, notify the police at once! —Walt.

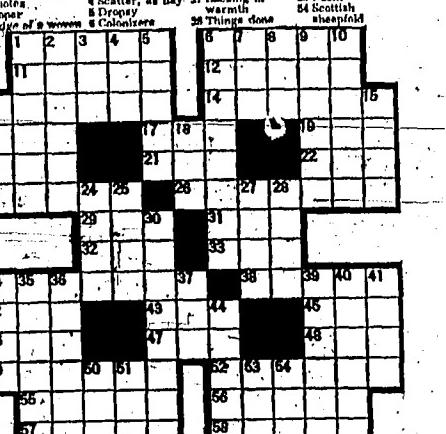

TV CENSORSHIP

Dear Ele and Walt: "Garryon's Gorillas" was one of my favorite TV shows until my mom informed me I could not watch this "blood thirsty, mind corrupting program." I think she has the impression that after I'm done watching it, I will go out and murder somebody. What should I do? —Mad.

Dear Mad: Obviously, if mom says so, the show is off your screen. But when the dust of this argument settles, you might start her thinking by politely telling Ele and Walt in care of this newspaper,
